“ Hey grandpa, it's Tater. We miss you. Hope heaven is treating you well. Watch over dad, he's still not taking it as well, he's holding on & being strong, but he has his moments. Today is hard for him. He loves you, & needs you. When he calls out, please answer .. he needs you, more than anyone. We love you
- xoxo your granddaughter .

“ To Joetta and family, my thoughts and prayers go out to all of you. I know Elvoy loved his family very much, and was always sharing funny stories of the grandchildren. May God give you peace during this difficult time.

It is hard to express the loss of a friend of 64 years. In our childhood we climbed trees, rode our bikes, played chase and tag, suffered bruises and scrapes, bled all over your mother's porch one day when we both suffered a serious cut to our foot while running thru the vacant lot - from something we never could identify. We argued, laughed, played jokes on each other, and in later years enjoyed the comfort of being old friends. Not one other friend ever sent me a broken axe handle for Christmas - with a warning that there would be "payback" one day. Nor has anyone else piled manure on a stack of hay with a sign that read "Here lies the remains of Jeannie" - and placed it where I could not miss it. There is no way to determine exactly how many people Elvoy told that I beat him up every day of his life, but for those that might see this tribute, it was not true! Being the "little brothers", Paula and I did pull some pranks on Elvoy and Raymond, but that's what big sisters do. Go rest high on that mountain, my friend, you have earned it.

“ Prayers going out to the family Elvoy. I have known him for 58 years and he has always been a friend that you could depend on. When I moved here from Tennessee, he took me under his wing to make sure that I got to and from Kenly School. In later life he worked with my husband, and he was always outgoing and usually had a smile on his face. Maxine Fox Meyer
