“ Just a few words on the day of Berts inturnment. Bert was one of the more humble men I have met in my life, there were never any discussions about his accomplishments during his life even though they were numerous. Bert was also not a selfish person, when I went to visit him in the hospital a few days before he passed the first thing he said to me was "how are you doing". Bert had a true love for life and all of adventures that it brings, he will be missed by everyone that knew him.

“ Bert, there are so many memories, stories, and adventures with you that I will cherish. The times as a kid when we would all go on the camping trips. Going out for dinners, shopping, and the countless conversations. What I will miss more than any other is your laughter. That wonderful laugh was contagious and would bring joy to all who surrounded you. I will never forget you and even when I feel like you're not around, I will listen for the echos of your laugh.
Love, Clifford

“ All who knew my uncle Bert appreciated his humor and his story telling ability. He loved to laugh and would often record his favorite Saturday Night Live sketches to replay for himself and friends. He was able to laugh at himself and many of his hilarious stories featured him in the starring role. His humility, humor and delight in the small things in life are lost virtues these days.

He would not tolerate gossip or cruelty in any form, and people who practised such things were not welcome in his life. He was a devoted husband to my Auntie Caroll. Hundreds of times over my lifetime I saw him look over at her and say to whoever was in the room, "Isn't she beautiful?" He was sincere and totally committed to his wife and their marriage.

He was born into poverty in West Virginia, and if anyone had told this young lad that he would end up having a career in a Fortune 500 company, own a beautiful home, go cruising, and have a happy 52-year marriage to a wonderful woman he would have shaken his head in disbelief! He loved the West Virginia Mountaineers, West Virginia Hot dogs (the best!), West Virginia pepperoni rolls, and was absolutely delighted whenever he met a fellow West Virginian.

My Uncle Bert was brave. His life was filled with serious health challenges that he survived with grace, tenacity, and humor. He bore the terrible news of his last challenge with his usual calm and fortitude, enduring months of tests, procedures, treatments and hospital stays without self-pity. He didn't give up until the universe gave him no other choice. He left this world surrounded by family and best friends, Mary and Sammy. It was a beautiful send-off, complete with a gorgeous moon surrounded by clouds and a stunning lightning show.

You could always rely on Uncle Bert because his values never changed. We are so sad that he is gone but he is still here in our hearts. He is finally at peace now and we will try our hardest to live our lives fully as each day we walk on this earth is a precious gift.

We love you, Uncle Bert!

“ Uncle Bert...one of the nicest guys you'd ever want to meet. He was sweet, kind, funny, and tolerant. And with the two Duffield girls to contend with, he held his own. I always looked forward to seeing him when I came to Florida. He always has stored up funny stories. He was a meticulous guy, and that made him and Auntie Carrol happy. I'll miss him a lot. We all will feel his loss. Things just wont be the same without him.

Love you Uncle Bert, Leslie, Ty, and Tinkie.

Sorry for your loss. I just heard and I'm heart broken. I used to work with Bert in the mailroom at the law firm and he always was fun to be around, he was a hard working man and he always made us laugh and made our day go by so fast. He was a great guy. Please send my deepest condolences to his wife Carrol and family.
