“ Pami and I were just talking about the time Aunt Betty made her famous fruit cocktail cake and instead of pouring in the can of fruit cocktail as planned, she accidentally opened and poured in a can of pork and beans!! She said she picked those little beans out for what seemed like forever because she wasn't going to start over! (And Pami said it was the best fruit cocktail cake Aunt Betty ever made!) The kids today don't have a clue about real OMG and LOL moments, the best ones started years back with our crew that's looking down on us right now. Walk with God and the rest of 'em. Much Love!

“ Mom and I were cleaning off her back porch one day and she had this wicker table with a huge round glass top on it. We decided to take the top off and I would hold it as she beat the dust out of the wicker with a broom. Well when she beat on it a snake fell out of it. Next thing I know I'm standing there holding this huge glass top and she's gone. She ran in through the sliding glass doors and slammed it shut. I'm standing there looking at this snake and looking at the table top trying to decide if I should just drop it and run or what. Finally I see the door slide open about an inch and I hear her say, "Lean the glass against the wall." So I did and just as I was getting ready to run I see the door open a little wider with a plastic container in her hand. She told me to catch the snake and get rid of it. Just so you know, I am every bit as afraid of snakes as she was! Lol, I will never forget that.
