“Dad I luv you and I miss you! Every day in the last year you taught me so many things as I look back i realize the strenght u have had threw it all the battel of dementia I seen you walk threw can't even be explained! But all I know I found a super man that made things he was going threw look easy. I got into such a routine I'm not truly sure what I will do with my self but one thing I can say I learnt how to get down on my knees even more and pray harder and harder. Dad I'm so glad that we let the pasted go five years ago and I thank God for letting me get back a relationship with you as I had as a little girl! Your shines so much light on the people where you was and u blessed many not everyone seen that side of u but today I say I'm glad that the lord healed your body and ur not suffering even tho it hurts us all you are gone I know that you and mama is dancing down the streets of gold I luv u and will carry you in the same place I been carrying mom in my heart. ❤️
