“ Another start to a wonderful day.

This day, as most, I count my blessings always noting the splendor in Cameron Lee being one of our two magnificent sons. You are quite the guy in my book son. Both you and Cory, each in your own way, thrill mom and I to no end. Your differences are what make you each glisten in such dynamic and notable ways ... determined and cheerful character shines profoundly along with loving kindness in both of you.

Life is so different with you being elsewhere all this time past and of course, shall it be' each and every day forward. Two children continue noting Uncle Cameron in their conversations often - Hudson and Hazel. I find it easy to visualize you caressing each of them in your Cameron-esque fashion, as only you do, in character, without hesitation. Man oh man, I would cherish seeing that and certainly would join in. "Family Hug" is to this day a common chant - you my son summoned many a hug to make clear our family's mutual love reigns onward.

I love you, miss your physical presence and continue having Cameron Lee in my daily mix of things. Everyday mom and I share our thoughts which include you and a plea to God ... "Lord if grantable, please caress our son for us again today", knowing that in time we both will see you in the Heaven.

Love you son, Pops

“ We used to play baseball together at Pinecrest. Always super nice and outgoing. In the dugout, I recall us talking about bass guitar and bands we wanted to see live. Fun times.

Rest in Peace, Cameron.

“ So happy to have this resource from Hopewell ... the memories are so welcoming, as a candle in the dark or even better ... a hug at that magic moment.

Today our home is filled with family, now including our beautiful granddaughter - Hazel Jane. Truly another Merry Christmas day.

Our lives are so blessed with love and happiness daily, we get through things together (we always do), we celebrate with purpose and love ... because that is how we are. Certainly you, my son, would be humoring us and engaging us full throttle with your presence and being - if you were here. Regardless of your physical presence, this family and many you have befriended, we cherish the thoughts and memories afforded us at every breathe during this lifetime. You left your mark, my son. For me, each day I am blessed with charming thoughts and images both of you to brighten my day.

Uncle Cameron, and then ... who knows? Daddy? So competitive you are and maybe you and Cory may have surrounded Mom and I with oodles of grandchildren. She and I are so blessed.

Christmas Day is upon us and the New Year celebrating is soon upon us - so different without you. God knows how and when to walk with me through my sad times and He sure knows when to pour out generously the beautiful memories of my baby son to soothe me. Mom and I cheer each other daily with you and your life with our family.

Cameron Lee, we all miss and love you,

This is the case again, during times when our family gathers and even when I am having fun with Hudson I find being joy filled puts me in to the reality that you, my son, are not here with us. Uncle Cameron is known by little Hudson yet he will never experience the joy of your love and humor so enjoyed by family and friends. I miss you so much Cameron Lee, every day.

Christmas has passed and New Year celebrating is soon upon us - so different without you. God knows how and when to walk with me through my sad times and He sure knows when to pour out generously the beautiful memories of my baby son to soothe me.

“ My dear Cameron,

Tomorrow your family will celebrate your nephew Hudson's first birthday.

Mom and I visited the photos box in an effort to locate a baby photo of your big brother Cory. This will be displayed at the gathering to entertain the similarities in Hudson's appearance to his daddy. Photos of Julie as well to further display the continued blessings God affords families as they grow.

Amazingly so, Mom and I again realized how similar both you and Cory looked in your earliest years ,, just took us to happy tears. So different in personalities yet so remarkably close in looks in your infant and toddler days.

Hudson looking so similar to Cory, along with Julie's charm and eyes, is yet another masterpiece from God gifted to our family. Cameron he is a pistol ... up and running now. He explores everything. Who knows, just maybe he will take things apart as his Uncle Cameron did and have Cory to put things back together - a loving dad is he, as was he, that loving big brother you will always know and love.

Never will I not see you with this family at every occasion and gathering - always Cameron you are within my daily thoughts and memories. Celebrate with us from the Heavens this remarkably energetic and charming little nephew of yours.

Hudson James Koss ... such a blessing to us all.

I love you my son,

“ Dear God,

Please if You will, let our son Cameron know of his becoming "Uncle Cameron" today to a beautiful boy, named by his big brother and charming sister-in-law, Hudson James. Thank you God, Cameron's nephew is amazing! Such a magnificent gift, an act of love from You to this family.

We, in Cam's family, know Hudson would have been smothered with unconditional love from his uncle ... the same family love he had for myself, mom, Julie, and his big brother Cory. Such a void we, who love Cameron Lee so much, all share - events as wonderful as Hudson's birth today keep us alert to our family's love and strengths.

Thank you Lord.

From Dad:

Cameron Lee, the viewing of Cory with his son is so amazing. He will be a terrific father to your nephew for sure. He is a wonderful husband to our princess, Julie. I am certain Hudson will become well aware of your importance to both this family and your true friends. As a grand father, I will love Hudson, as both you and Cory, until my last breath. Mom exceeds all our expectations, as you well know, in the love department - yes Cameron, Hudson James will undoubtedly be spoiled.

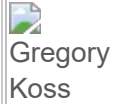

We love you son, We miss you my son, and each look forward to our "Family Hug" one day in Heaven.

Love ya, Pops.

Not just a statistic, yet one which humbly claims title of "together" and loving toward one another and those close to us. You, Cameron Lee, have left a bit of a legacy sharing that loving character you were afforded as part of this family - you lived sharing that which you learned and realized from home ... love. Many a story comes our way of you simply doing good and staying positive ... often from people we simply do not know. Amazing how rewarding doing the right thing can be. You and Cory both have such genuine character as individuals, positive leadership attitudes, and an eagerness to enjoy the day.

I choose to live daily, the joy of your lifetime ... an abundance of happy. I glow spiritually remembering your smile and your picking at me ... yes, your hands are larger than mine. God has you in His Heaven and one day we will all be together - "Family Hug".

“ Dear Cameron,

I am at a daily loss adjusting to your not being here - simply hard for me to do. Man, your smile and a hug would be nice today ... every day.

Momma, Cory, Julie and I will be going to the NMRA event this weekend. Sure do enjoy this. I remember you and Cory seemed to also ... especially at the end when you guys would snag the banners you liked, hah! I will be a bit more receptive to our surroundings this visit, as I was not so last year - too sad missing you, James did join me on Friday. We had a great time. I like James. With your cars in mind, I will be very focused on resources and tips to get things going. Mom wishes for your rides to be used and shown as do I ... we will do this, I promise son. We are making plans to get all three as we feel you wished them to be. Maybe one day Cory will bring your race car through the traps at 9.24 seconds for you - I know he has the talent to do so. Remember, 924VFR on your tag? You said, "hey Pops, 9.24 Very Fast Ride, we can do that right?". I said with my arm over your shoulders, "yep ... that's a goal for us", and I will remember that day with you forever.

Recently placed your nice Bullitt wheels and nice tires on the red coupe along with getting you that cowl hood you needed. Everyone likes what they see - I am sure you would be proud of this accomplishment ... I am following your lead my son.

I love you so much and have many loving memories and photos of you, my Cameron Lee, to get me by ... I am still, in repair. God just may let you know how much you are loved by your daddy for me from time to time - one day He may let me know.

My, my, my, Cameron Lee. I love you, son.

“ My beautiful young man, I wish to again share that you are so missed by so many. Your family and friends have gone again through another Christmas celebration with you not here ... simply being you, eating a bunch of mashed potatoes, and sharing our love with gifts and fun. This is our 3rd with you not present, my son ... creates an imbalance in many ways.

Several loving friends and family gathered for the Christmas Tree Event traditionally held for you this past Dec. 21st - excellent moment again. We miss and love you so very much Cameron and enjoy this day with you at heart.

Gallon Challenge hit the 10 Year mark and was hilarious as usual - one non-participant named Adam puked simply from the sounds your buddies and big brother made ... hah! Your brother Cory and Ash were definitely fun to watch as usual.

Never really know how much of our earthly presence God shares with you, I will mention anyway ... Lisa Lawrence has entered Heaven and will be free of pain and will now get to experience the love of our God as you my son.

Cameron Lee, I miss you so much and love when God graces me with memories of you - He knows my heart and is our loving God with that perfect timing. Momma and I both desire your presence every day looking to God for anything that will calm us - He does provide. You, Cory and of course our Julie, are our happiness sources in this lifetime. Maybe one day grand babies will arrive extending this family size ... such a wonderful thought.

I love you, miss you and share you everyday Cameron Lee - Pops.

“ One day soon, we will have the Red Coupe on the street for your family and Ash to drive occasionally. Shortly afterwards, your Blue Coupe will be up also. Will be putting Grandpa Koss's small block in it ... more memories. Our goal, to enable showing these rides to others at shows for you. This task... for you my son, I love and miss you so very much each and every day of my life - sometimes this emotion is unbearable.

Aaah... the weather and seasonal change is here ... I remember how much you enjoyed this cooler time - just much more comfortable. God knows that I miss having you and Cory here as when you guys were under our roof ... I definitely do not like "the empty nest" that some parents look forward to - my love for you and your brother is not measurable.

Cameron Lee, I know you are living the life we all have to look forward to after here and not dealing with the stuff going on here ... must be beautiful. You deserve the best my son. Each and every day I find you not here disrupts my norm, often places me in a mental pause so to speak - I miss you so much. One day, maybe my tears will slow... certainly never to stop. Each who love you I am sure, find many a moment sadly as I do where our sorrow overwhelms us. For me I go to my memory vault to see you and hear your charming voice. Your smile, laughter, energy, beautiful brown eyes, that welcoming trait you have, and love for others I cherished being exposed to. Thank you!

I am not at peace with your not being here and hurt deeply to this day. I concern myself for the dearest of your friends and our family whom I know also work to accommodate the loss of you in our daily lives. I will be there at each ones need to help in any way - we miss you.

*One day, then two, my heart filled amorously with glee,
For a precious gift, was each an exciting time afforded me.
Each moment differed, yes in every way,
Both made recorded history on their special day.
I remember everything, the sights and sounds,
My God this is amazing, I'm elated, my heart pounds.
Emotions peaked ... my life now changed,
I knew that moment it was rearranged.
Yes, sight and sounds tickled my ear and eye,
Then came that amazing sound ... a newborn cry.
Never will I know a more magnificent moment,
"I have done it all", yet this, was ... that moment!
My child, a son, was placed into his daddy's hands,
Wow this is really happening, and... only love are his demands.
The love of my life shared each special day,
My wife, now a mother and also our Queen For The Day.
Becoming a father filled my heart richly and forever,
With love, pride and joy - yes, forever and for ever.
Fame and fortune, fast cars and fancy toys,
None more valued than each of my newborn boys.
I learned a lot about this lifetime, on each its special day,
Understanding I became a Dad, certainly a my Fathers Day.
Life's purpose I now know - I chose a wife, filled her life with love and glee,
For this, God rewarded me so richly ... twice,
First, our Cory James, and then again, our Cameron Lee.*

boys. Cameron Lee we dearly love you ... forever.*

“Awakening daily, I can choose to be ... simply human or to glimmer, spirit-filled. As I travel this routinely "A to B" daily journey, I cast my net to capture the many blessings in the middle, for there are, yes there are many. My dear family and friends, enable your bounty by leaving "attitude" at your "A", expressing gratitude en route to your "B". I believe you too as I, will be amazed at what you see --- no longer to be , just a daily journey, that "A to B".

I have grown, to understand receiving and giving, much more clearly. My temper has softened, my senses have awakened, the simple blessings I cherish more, and I worry far less. I have changed. My "normal" differs... I do weep daily, valuing this life time more, talk to God all day, and look forward to being a part of my family in every way.

I am still ...

A needed father, a loving husband, a warm embrace and a welcome smile, a member at church and my neighbor's friend.

Thank you God... for my "middle", that I more clearly now see, this one which You fill so richly, as I travel this lifetime ... from "A to B".

Each day I cherish this time with my precious family --- we miss you Cameron Lee. Many a memory of you surfaces ... so many. I would love to hug you and see your smile. You are always present though, in each and every day, my son --- Thank You, God.

“ To my younger son ... Happy 21st Birthday, Cameron Lee.

I can only imagine ... a big, big table with lots and lots of food.

We would certainly hug and kiss you often today, as always. You and Cory are so loved. You boys are our life purpose, that which has always afforded us millions of happy moments. My heart is still torn and shall be for my lifetime. Others too, express emotions regarding your place in their lives, to this day. Cameron you are missed, loved, desired, admired, and remembered for being that unique person you are. A certain someone told us, " Cameron loved and showed me how to love...". That day I knew you lived life as God designed us. That day, hearing that, filled my heart with a joy as pleasant as the birth of Cory and you my son --- each a confirmation of my love for your beautiful mother and the splendor of being a dad.

Today, Momma, Joe and I will be planting that sycamore tree in the front pasture you wished to replace for me at Father's Day, for you, in your memory. We obtained a nice super tall skinny one as you are, hah! Certainly, it will fill out over the years as would have you, my son."...would have" that is so difficult to say ... yes I am weeping. Daily I weep, and each and every day I am blessed with only wonderful memories of you. Both Cory and you are such terrific sons --- not one breath of my life is wasted dwelling on any one moment you two may have challenged your parents ... you guys ... your good outweighs by far, those few.

I love you and miss you dearly, Cameron. You are loved and missed so much by Momma, Cory, Julie, Lauren and so many others --- your time with each of us is unique and shall be cherished forever.

I may be burning the brush pile, which I established for your 20th birthday, tonight --- if so, possibly God will let you spot us. I hope so. Daddy had a big day planned for you then --- fire, food, friends and music ... to have been a surprise birthday party for you.

As Momma would say, " fly low Angel Baby, feel my hugs and kisses". I love you and we all miss you.

You Poppa - I miss you, Birthday Boy.

“ Good morning ... I love you, my young son.

Celebrated a 28th year anniversary with Momma on Saturday the 16th. My big surprise was taking her to Bartow Airport for breakfast with friends to have her find that we were actually flying to another city, Sebring, for that breakfast. Her eyes got big and she shined with happy memories of Grandpa Smith flying her often as a young girl in N.Y. This day was a beautiful day from God and continued to get better. After returning to Bartow we went to Bok Tower. This is a very peaceful place - younger, you and Cory fed squirrels there. We enjoyed this calming visit and its floral beauty, even took a nap on the grassy hillside under huge oak trees. From here we stayed at Capernaum Inn on the north side of Lake Pierce - Jesus and His disciples rested at the city of Capernaum located at the north side of the Sea of Galilee. The Capernaum Inn is a Christian Retreat facility. We ended our day with a meal at a fish camp restaurant named Cherry Pocket.

My life needs these moments of continued expression of love and gratitude toward whom I love ... helps me find peace and purpose. Our God is good.

We all miss you dearly, son. Any day of celebration for us is void of your charm, silliness and smile. These can be tough - miss you being here.

One day, yes one day at God's will we will all be in His Home and be with you also Cameron Lee. Until that time my life will be blessed with endless memories of you and you with your big brother Cory, giving this family and our community moments of joy and laughter to hold on to forever.

*Love you forever, son.

“ Just have to tell you ... I love and miss you so very much.

Your big brother shaved his beard, kept a long mustache - looks nice. My guess, you would mess with him a bit to humor him. You often did such with your friends and whom you loved, to get a chuckle, laugh and smile going --- always anxious to charm or humor anyone, you have that beautiful talent. Cory misses you so very much, I can tell. He just has not yet communicated this at length with me yet ... I hurt more than he could imagine for him. My big boy is a wonderful guy and the best big brother on the planet, I am sure you agree. I sure do love you boys.

Momma and I ... we love you and Cory so very much. He and you are our world. Your brother is becoming quite the man, I know you loved him also and cherished the opportunity to let others know how much he meant to you --- many tell us of your comfort sharing your feelings about this family you love. Living love has blessed this family at heart ... forever, baby. You offered your unique way of kindness, cheer and love to many --- thank you.

One day, we will all share a "family hug" together again --- you often called for these. God has you now and I am certain you are a blessing to all, especially our loved ones in Heaven ... I am sure.

“ January 1, 2012:

Let me fill you in on the wonderful things your family and friends have done for you son.

The first day of winter, Dec, 22nd, many gathered to place and decorate a Christmas Tree for you - of coarse, with the blue and white colors you chose earlier this year. We placed solar-powered LED lamps on it to have it light up at night ... AWESOME looking! It was a beautiful day, many brought personalized ornaments and we released helium-filled balloons also. Upon these we wrote you messages from our hearts ... you are so loved, my son. Later we all (50-60) gathered at Granny's for a chance to re-live the good times you and your friends have often. Get this, Pound Cake played, yep your big brother, little Cory and James played three tunes --- man did this make momma and I happy to see Cory plat again.

Christmas Day Momma and I spent with Cory and Julie ... really warm day, cooler would have been nice. You will be happy to know Cory did receive the Smoker Grill from you as you wished for his gift. What a story, It was nowhere to be found, then a guy named Ron located one at the Home Depot in Ft. Pierce. He even picked it up for us as he was returning from a trip to Miami himself and brought it to Home Depot in Valrico ... he works there. What a small miracle, our God made this happen for you and Cory, I know this in my heart. We later went to Grandma's for Christmas Dinner.

New Years Eve was kinda calm for Momma and I --- just chilling at home. Went to Church New Years Day and then home. Moved your tree back home, it is beautiful here, you would really like it, I feel.

Cameron, my baby son, I love you so much and pray for your brother Cory, your family and friends every day. My prayers are for their peace with your early entry into Heaven, as we see it. You are such a valued person in so many lives. You are living a Life Eternal with God and with our family members with God, and wow... I can only imagine the splendor you feel daily. As much as you smile, I would love to see that smile with the joy you and your Aunt Patricia experience.

I ask our God to hug and kiss you for me often each and every day - -- Momma does this also. We love you and live with you in our hearts every day son. I can only hope that God permits you feel and know our love for you --- often.

*Love you forever,

One day, maybe, God will bless me with a ridin' buddy as you, my son. Traveling about to buy sell and trade to keep from spending house monies, you and I are very good at this.*

Cameron you are an amazing guy in mine and many hearts. You and Cory are the gifts a mom and dad can be so proud of ... so loved, every day - forever. You both are so talented in many ways. Great guys!

I hope ... I need, to finish your projects for you one day, my son. I miss your anxiousness and impatient flare everyday. I am not ready yet though. Our family and friends will one day complete your dreams in your memory and share these projects with others, to see. You can count on me with God's grace to do so with you in my heart every step of the way. I will see you near me, in my heart ... I will see your smile as I work. I believe God will give me this joy --- He is generous and loving. Each of us created in God's likeness, bet that is where you get your charming and pleasant character from. Not to say you never got grumpy sometimes, my son. Hah!

Cameron, I daily ask God to share my love for you --- thank you God, I feel He does. I am sure you are very busy in God's house ... you are always up to something. Do your best for Him, I know God does for you.

BTW - God is gentle and loving to your Momma and I everyday --- our protector and Heavenly Father. He is watching over your whole family and your friends, inviting all to be with Him and you through Jesus Christ. Angels will sing out as others believe ... the Promise of Heaven is for all. The Promise of Heaven is for real. I pray daily for all your earthly friends my son, I promise.

“ Cameron Lee, just seven days and minutes ago you entered into a new life --- with your Heavenly Poppa. You are with out a doubt receiving your rewards in heaven!

This past week has enabled me to more clearly see that you not only touched the lives of your mother, brother and I, ... you touched that of hundreds and won the hearts of many during your lifetime. May I add - over 500 hundred Wednesday and over 300 for your funeral shared this confirmation of your charming personality.

Commonly stated, "... life is short", is truly relative to eternity, yet our life is the longest thing we know. Only this are we... of it, in it, and aware of it from start to finish, nothing else. We live it as we are instructed to in our youngest years, then at a certain point, we begin to live as we wish, and finally ... as our Creator intended --- only He knows that point in time for our "short" lives. Cameron, you have done well, my baby with your version of a "short life" ... very well. Momma, Cory, and I are very proud of you!

Referencing a theme from a beautiful poem we were presented this week, I am aware that I am only here for but a flicker in time ... the longest thing I too will ever know, I am blessed to have at a point been gifted with you as wonderful son --- myself and many are pleased to have had Cameron in our "Dash". I hope I served you well in yours, my son.

Cameron for you, your Momma and your loving big brother Cory, I politely and with much pride, accepted the short expressions of love and admiration shared and thanked them all. At first this was unbearable, soon it warmed my heart as did the day of your birth --- you both entered and left my life and theirs as only you could ... we thank you son.

I am grieving at this point in my life and God is teaching me how to soak up the many blessings He promises to His family, "you would be amazed", I say, then I realize ... you probably know this, you are with Him.

My beloved son, this day is filled with remarkable memories of you, and today in my "short life" again that opportunity to love you mother, Cory and those others dear to us not mentioned (the list would be too long, my son) will occur. We will all be very busy filling in each of our "dashes" as you did so well, until we too meet that "point in life" when God calls us home to be with you again.

Good day for now my baby.

Love you always my son,

“ My Sweet Angel Baby - Cameron,

There are no words to describe the pain I feel right now. The emptiness, the feeling that I am never going to be whole again. You, Cory and your Dad are my life, my world.

I will always cherish every memory we have shared together as a family, and just as Mother & Son. The bond between us as a Mother & Son can not be broken, it may have stretched a little farther than I wanted it to but you will always be in my heart.

I will always remember the Love, along with that came the laughter, smiles, fun & joy. You always made me proud. You were always full of life. You had so many dreams and plans. In your short life you accomplished a lot.

Your future plans were exciting & adventurous, just like you. When you put your mind to it you could do anything - determination.

You made such an impact on so many lives at so many levels.

Your smile was the first thing everyone noticed, how you lit up a room when you walked in, or in some cases, ran or danced through. Your big brown eyes always sparkled, sometimes with a little mischief in them. My practical joker. It was all in good natured fun. You are a loving soul who would take the time to stop and talk for a minute or to pitch in a helping hand. You never let us down, or anyone else you were helping.

Your honesty, politeness & respect for others is so admirable. You had a great example to follow in your big brother. Probably without you knowing the full extent you touched so many lives.

I am proud to say I am your Mom. Life is just a flicker in time. I am glad God allowed us to have you as our Special Gift of a Son, Brother, nephew, cousin and great friend. I am happy to know that one day I will see your beautiful, smiling face again. When God opens his arms for me, like he did for you when he gently took you home. I know he has special plans for you and I know you won't let Him down.

Your light did not go out, it is only shining brighter with each and every memory we share.

Cameron, just know Mom loves and misses you more than words can ever express. But, I know you knew that anyway.

Fly low my Sweet Angel Baby so I may feel your presence in my everyday life as I will, with all the wonderful memories that we packed into a short 19 years.

Listen for my I Love You's everyday and feel my kisses.

You are always in my heart.

Be at peace my Son and enjoy your new life.

“ I'll never forget the pinecrest days man. Me, you, TJ, Conner and a boat load of others were the boys of fall back then when football season came around. I'll never forget the superbowl we went to and all the crap we went through at practice together. Times like those will always be remembered and I'm glad we could all share those memories together. Even though we didnt hang out much when we went to highschool, this tragic event has hit me and us pinecrest boys hard. It's not easy losing someone you grew up with and played ball with every season for years. You were a good friend and teammate. I enjoyed the times we shared and i am glad i could play next to you for as long as i did. Do me a favor and save me a spot up there man. May your spirit forever ride on.

Your friend and teammate,

“ My dear son Cameron,

Approximately twenty years ago, you entered our lives with a nerve racking childbirth --- had everyone scurrying about in the maternity ward to assure your good health. We realized that day you would be a real pistol.

Momma and I got you home soon after and introduced you to your big brother, Cory. From that moment we saw his love for you, his little brother. The two of you grew up together in such loving harmony --- always together, always wanting to be together. You seemed to mirror your big brother's every move, good and bad, hah!

As the years have passed Cameron, you had definitely developed your own unique personality --- loving, generous, polite, sharing, curious, thrill seeking daredevil, oh and... a prankster of a sort. You had often chosen the harder path, yet seldom missed your goals. You offered to many, your virtuous life style's way of being a Great Guy, winning the hearts of many. You and your brother Cory shared this charming trait, each being so, yet each in your own ways --- a modest difference yet, different.

I watched, as a father should do, how you treated challenges and how you treated the people around you --- you did fine. As you big brother, you made me proud to be your Dad.

In time I anticipated your life's journey would be filled with rewards from hard work and conviction. At your young age you achieved a notable basket of goodies --- proving so. You dreamed out loud, focused on each bridge to cross and took a stab at almost anything. You seemed stubborn at times, shunning others advise and usually just doing it Cam's way. Remarkably so, still making the score!

You seemed always to be moving forward, sharing your dreams with friends and your family, with full intent to succeed and share your good times with those you loved and cared about --- awesome!

Again, may I mention ... loving, generous, polite, sharing, curious, thrill seeking daredevil, oh and... a prankster of a sort. The hole enchilada, my son.

Never in my lifetime did I think a day would arise where this charming, determined young man you grew to be, would be taken from me, your Poppa as you said. A day you started as many of yours did, yet ending as never before and never again. Such a sad day, my son. A day always to remember, not alone for mine and your mother's loss, but one for all the lives your charm and smiling face made happy.

Cameron, my baby, you are gone for now sharing the splendor our God's Kingdom. One day your spirit-filled loved ones also will be in His house with you --- His Promise.

Your mother and I loved you from day one and this love will never end. She and I both will mourn and accept that you are in the Greatest Care. This loss of your being in our daily lives seems to date, to be unbearable. Our sorrow is that which seems not to end -- - we have never done this before. Wish you were here to ask, " what you doing, old man?". "Writing about a wonderful guy we know and love", would be my answer.

Cameron, my baby, you are gone from Momma and I for now, be ready for our meeting you one day in God's Kingdom --- we will probably hug you and kiss you very very hard my son.

Cameron Lee Koss, you have made us very proud parents, your brother and friends miss you dearly, we all loved you as you were and will tell everyone of your precious time with us ... we promise!

*Love ya my son,
Poppa*
