My dear sweet Aunt whom I loved dearly. The days are empty without hearing from her every day and night. She often said the computer was her link to the outside world, and it was. She kept in touch with her friends and family through email. I remember she marveled the day when she got a cell phone. She said who would have thought that I would ever have a phone?

She was thrilled to have it but when she discovered Amazon Prime, that topped the phone. She said all she had to do was order it one day and it was delivered to her door step the next day! I remember one time in particular when I went to visit her, she said she had ordered plants, pots and 8 quarts of dirt from Amazon, I thought 8 quarts of dirt from Amazon, that won't be enough. Well, low and behold, when I finished all that she wanted me to do, I had used up all of the 8 quarts of dirt and so it was just enough. She was smart and talented in all that she did. She made all of her clothes when she worked, she sewed costumes for her and my uncle for the church festivals. She played the piano and organ, she was well read, she crocheted and embroidered, knitted, painted and she loved to work puzzles. She also loved to try new recipes. She expanded her menu items after she learned to use the Publix grocery app and she started ordering things from the deli and bakery. Apple Fritters and Moose Track Ice Cream were a couple of her favorites and she always said, why not? You only go this way once, so she enjoyed the things she liked. When she began to lose her vision, she continued to work with crafts and she made memory books using pictures from magazines that held special memories and or were patriotic scenes and she commented about on each one. they were unique gifts that she made for me, two for her best friend, and one for her granddaughter. She made the best of things she couldn't change and didn't dwell on the past. If I heard her say "oh well, that's water under the bridge" once, she said it a hundred times. Aunt Carole loved the Lord, she prayed and she often asked for prayer for her family and friends. She was always smiling and thankful for everything anyone did for her and for everything she had. Her last words to me were, "Kathy, Thankyou thankyou thankyou!" While I miss her every day, there is comfort knowing she is in heaven where there are no more tears and no more pain and sorrow.
