I met Red at the Lake Rosalie campground where he was the park host. Spent many nights over the years out there on Red's watch and enjoyed the stories he told about fishing, his family, the sheet rock business, and tales from the good ole' days in Tampa.

He'd show up in the morning, bring fresh citrus, tomatoes to my campsite.

He loved to hang out by the fire and shoot the breeze.

After he retired from the park a couple of years ago we lost touch. He dug up my phone number last year and gave me a call out of the blue. We talked about ole' times camping at the lake, friends we'd made out there, and how he was living his life out back in Plant City with his beloved wife. Just spoke with him last month again.

He was a simple man, he'd tell it like it is and was a stand up guy, one of a kind in today's day and age.

He lived his life his way, the right way, and was a real man's man.

With deepest sympathy, my condolences to the entire Weaver family.

Rest in peace brother !
