“ When Aunt Cora and Uncle Bill first moved to Florida from Indiana, I was home from college for the summer. I knew how hard it was to make a major move like that. I wanted to make it easier for Aunt Cora. The two of us were the only ones home many days that summer because everyone else was working. We spent our days exercising, walking, and just chatting. At the end of that summer, Aunt Cora presented me with a beautiful porcelain doll with very long hair that played music. We had discovered we had a common interest in collecting dolls and Aunt Cora always had long hair when was growing up. Aunt Cora gave me the doll because she said wanted me to remember her by it. She told me I gave her the best gift of all, the gift of time. I still have that doll and I treasure her. I truly learned the gift of time that summer. Aunt Cora always recognized me every time I visited her even in her end days. I felt the love she had for me. I hope she felt my love for her. Rest in peace, Aunt Cora. Until we meet again.....Your niece, Roberta
