“ My deepest condolences to the family on the loss of your loved one. When we lose someone we love in death, the pain, grief, and feelings of helplessness can seem unbearable. But remember that the Almighty God sees your tears, he feels your pain. He also promises by means of his kingdom (Dan 2:44) there will be a time when "death will be no more, neither will mourning nor outcry nor pain be anymore" (Rev 21:3,4) So until then, he will continue with you to comfort and sustain you through this very difficult time. (Psalms 55:22 )

“ I met Liz almost 15 years ago when we were both single moms of young children dealing with doing the best we could to be decent parents and the ins and outs, struggles, and joys of single "mommery" if you will. Our lives have always been very parallel whether it was regarding our "ex" , our children, our love lives, our laughter, sadness, joys and celebrations, or stressors and bad times. Liz's appearance reminded me of my own mother when she was young and when we became friends she instantly felt like family. We had nicknames for each other and I have always called her "Lizabi" I was and will always be connected to her in a way that I have not and will never have that kind of connection. We never get off the phone without telling each other we love each other. She was my sister in life. Now I will just have to talk to her a little differently. She had a very passive yet quirky spirit. Her laugh was contagious. She was always smiling. She was an awesome listener and her steady temperament and compassion was profound. She loved her husband and her family and loved her sons in every way. She fought her battle bravely and strongly and accepted that her days were numbered pretty early on but the only thing that really bothered her was leaving her family and them being left without her as well. She was the best friend a girl could ever ask for and a daughter, sister, aunt, wife, mother. But most of all she was Herself and her life was taken way to soon. What happened to Elizabeth is tragic but she was NOT a tragedy. I will choose to celebrate her life because I know that is what she would want all of us to do. What bothered her the most is how much she knew other people were struggling knowing she would have to leave us one day. We have to let her go. I love you Lizabi. You may be gone but you will never be forgotten!!

Don't grieve for me,
For now I'm free
I've left behind some misery,
My days of youthful agility
Were no longer a possibility,
My weak joints and cloudy eyes,
Were longing for the heavenly skies,
Before I lost all dignity,
You let me enter eternity,
Don't grieve for me,
You've set me free,
Just remember how I used to be!

“ I want to share many memories of my prima (cousin). She was a beautiful warm hearted young woman. Very outgoing. I will treasure all my pictures I have of Elizabeth growing up. She comes from a family that are very close to each other. I was so excited when Elizabeth and family came to our family reunion. As I am one of the oldest cousins, I Love showing my Love for all my primas and primos. So, whoever met my prima, you were touched by her cheerfulness. Her memories will stay in my heart as well as my wall.
