“Papa attended every school recital, every awards ceremony. He sat in the bleachers at every game. He attended every birthday party. He clapped for me and my cousins every time we played in our band at church. He was in the crowd at every graduation. He went to every wedding. He taught me how to shoot a basketball and how to drive our Gator. He was always there, ever-present with his steadfast love and support. When I graduate from USF in August, and when I eventually marry and have children of my own, I will always be reminded of his missing presence. I was given 25 years with one of the best men I ever knew, but I selfishly wish I had more. I know now that he is resting in heaven with a body that is healed and whole, but I will miss him everyday.

*All my love, Papa

I am not sure why I thought of Gerry this morning. We were friends as freshmen at Mercer University 1963-1964. I think he transferred after that year, and I never saw him again. I missed his friendship; I think we were kindred spirits. I remember some of our conversations, which were fairly often. He was a gentle spirit, a likeable guy, and knew what he wanted in life. He was talking pharmacist as a freshman. What a blessing he must have been to his family and community. Gary Harmon
