“ Isabel, I miss you so much. As time has gone by I find it easier to look at your pictures without falling apart. Well sometimes. I wonder sometimes if you were still here how different our lives would be. Our family, as it is, has grown apart. I pray for us every day. I pray that one day we can all come together. The saying "life is to short", well I never really took it to heart until you no longer was here. Now I understand and take it to heart when saying "life is to short". So maybe, you can give your family a little nudge and get us moving in the right direction. Love you!

“ Hey Isabel, I went to see you today with mom and grandma. All i could think over and over in my head was why you? Why did god take away a woman's only daughter? Why could god taken me instead? I just cryed in silent in the backseat pretending i wasn't. I was angry as well that why you? If i could trade places with you I would do it in a heart beat. Because this world needs you! And mississ you! Thinking of that made me cry even more... well happy 24 birthday Isabel. We will all be together in the afterlife when our time comes as well. Goodnight I LOVE YOU.

“ I haven't talked to you in since like, sophomore year. But you were my pal at lunch, and I always admired you because you were yourself no matter what or who was involved, and I loved that about you. I remember everytime we'd see eachother we'd run and hug eachother. I don't know why we lost touch, and I regret that we did. I send my best wishes to your family for such a tragic loss of such a beautiful person, both inside and out. <3 Rest in Peace girl, but live it to the fullest up where your at<3

“ I have so many memories with Isabel, how could I pick just one? I took her to her first concert so many years ago, we went to see my chemical romance and she just took over the crowd. She was so crazy and was crowd surfing and had such a great time. I'll never forget our many window shopping trips when we would try on lingerie in fredricks and hot topic and get yelled at for taking pictures lol. We somewhat grew apart here and there during high school but I will always consider Isabel as a best friend of mine. She was the first friend I made when I moved here in 8th grade and to experience that kind of friendship and happiness from someone like her, I am so lucky and grateful. I will forever miss her.

“ I remeber when isabel and I were riding in my car and a song by muse came on the radio called "uprising" and we were just screamin and singing the words with the radio and laughing...and monster jam of 2010 was so great isabel got autographs of the big monster truck drivers in a book that i bought her cause she had never been to one before and isabel met some of them.

I also rember that i picked isabel up from jail one day and she was sooo happy and it was so funny cause isabel rubbed her armpits and sniffed them and said ewwwhhh they stink i want a shower....

“ I did not know Isabel very well, but whenever I saw her on at Southwest Florida College, she was always making me laugh. When classes went on a break, I would see her and talk about random things, something I do often.

The days I knew her, she was goofy and silly and I thought, "Wow, she is the first person I've met since I've lived in Florida who is just like me. Not afraid to be silly and make others smile even though I have few reasons to smile." Isabel, you'll always be one awesome woman and I am glad I knew you even for a brief time. You'll never be lost or forgotten. Lots of love, TJ

“ Izzy,

You work very hard in school. You had many friends, who supported and knew you were meant for great things. You will truly be missed, around campus. However, you will live forever in the hearts of everyone. We will make sure graduation is a joyous celebration as you would have wanted it to be. I know you will make a great angel, may you have peace.
