“Mrs. Rice, you taught a whole lot more than English. You taught your students how to live and how to think for ourselves. I know I owe a lot to you, and I know I'm far from the only one. Thank you for being one of the best teachers I've ever had, in school and in life. I love you more than I ever told you, but we both know that. Rest In Peace Mrs. Rice, you always were an angel.”

“Mrs. Rice was a champion for her students and our son Chase loved talking with her and learning from her; she was one of his favorite teachers. She was an outstanding and insightful teacher and will be missed greatly by all who had the blessing of knowing her. As parents, we love those who love our children. Mrs. Rice was much loved. She made a lasting positive and personal impact on her students - she showed them that she cared about them and believed in them - even if they didn't believe in themselves. She made a difference in the lives of others, and that truly is the meaning of a life well lived. Thank you for sharing her with us. Our thoughts and prayers are with you all at this difficult time. -- Stacy, Jeff, Chase, Blake and Ashley Dunn”

“ In all the years I've lived here...it never fails ..when her name is mentioned every parent will quietly say "my ____ had such a bond with her"...or "she and my ____ had a special relationship." I often wondered what was the magic that Leslie had...how did every student, every friend, feel like they were something special? What is that quote about the difference you make in the life of a child... let's just stop and hold sacred the impact she had on so many of our children's lives....and how her impact will carry forward..as she taught everyone -not just English - but taught everyone how to be a fully engaged loving, caring humans and championed the ability to inspire. The greatest honor we can bestow upon her is to try our best to be the same. Two children...have two parents who are amazing people - who loved each other - and have both positively influenced so many lives. Sir Rabindranath Tagore said "death is not extinguishing the light ...it is simply putting out the lamp because the dawn has come." Her light will go on forever....and one day again she'll be teaching us the way. What a life! What an honor to have known her.

With heartfelt sympathy... The Bochy Family (Joe,Diane, Hoyt & Virginia)
