“ I will always remember the lessons she taught me about life, family, love and about raising a child with all the courage and unconditional love that a mother can possess. Nana was more than my grandmother. She was my kindred spirit. We thought the same thoughts, had the same determined willfulness and shared the same love for writing and painting. I will miss her laugh, her hugs, her smile, the touch of her hand and the scent of her skin. Even though her body has gone, I still feel her with me every day!

I love you Nana.
