“ I had a few thoughts that came to me, as I thought about life, and the sad news of now a 3rd younger cousin than me has crossed over. We have went to funerals for three of our family members in the past 6 months and my mind seems to be flashing back to some precious memories of childhood...Tammie's, sweet, soft, humble spirit has always shown bright! I admire her so much, and never once heard her complain about this burden of cancer, which she tried with all her being, to have victory over, and now we know with God that victory has been won! As adults, our lives were not as close, as we were involved with raising our own families, but, oh how the memories of growing up flood my mind...oh how I loved all the times as we were growing up...the gatherings at Granny's, all the Easter Egg hunts, all the Christmas Eves wondering which cousin drew our name, and all the sparklers, and all the hide and seek games, all the times we played in the creeks, Uncle Vernon was the cause of that, or caught a ocean beach surf ride together on the waves, or watched, and counted seconds, to see who could stay under the water the longest with one breath, watching the sun go down at Anna Maria...A joy our little Granny Cook started, I can remember all the pallets on the floor of all the cousins enjoying time at the beach..and then, the tradition continued when our Dads had vacation at the beach, a joy our families enjoyed almost every year, the mullet fries, the list goes on and on..I'm so sad that you've been taken on to your eternal home and our hearts break, we pray strength and comfort for all your family....I know your grandparents on both sides along with Jesus, met you at the gate as well as Uncle Bill, Sue, My Dad, your Uncle Nolan, Uncle Quinton Aunt Carolyn, Mark, and Matt, as well as others..heaven is surely sounding sweeter all the time...We know you are completely healed and your eternal life with Jesus has begun.We know you pointed people to Christ each time you had a opportunity and we know it's not goodbye, we will see you again, when you meet us at the gate at that grand reunion in heaven...thank you for the impact your Christian testimony had on my life...we love you Tammie. ❤️

Tammie was one of the kindest people I know. With everything she was going through she kept the faith and always found a reason to smile. She will be missed by family and friends! She has joined the great reunion in Heaven with her cousins! God Bless the family during this tough time but know she is at peace.
