“ I just found out today (from linkedin) about Tracie's passing. I am still in shock. I worked with Tracey for more than 2 years where she was a project manager of the project I was on.

She was more than a coworker. She was a friend. She listened to my problems (personal and career related) without judging me. She let me talk.

I was so excited for her when she moved to her dream state of Florida. After she purchased her home, she would send me pictures of the current state of the house including the wallpapers, the chandeliers, the pool and others.

I have not talked to Tracie since 2023, but I know she would answer that call if I need her.

Tracie, rest in peach in paradise.

“ A truly amazing woman from Day One, even though we were barely adults when we first met. Despite our polar opposite-ness, we became fast friends and have reveled in each other's accomplishments and milestones...and lamented the downturns of life, holding each other up to face another day. I will sorely miss this one, but will always hear her voice...candid, but always full of love. She will continue to guide me to be a better person. Peace to you, my dear friend...and your adoring family, too. 🌻
