“ I was on a hiking trip with the Lockhart brothers and a bunch of other people from the Asheville school. on the second day we had a long hike, 10 miles at least and plenty of it was uphill and over rough terrain. when we finally stopped for lunch, I opened up my backpack and found to my horror that someone had put a gigantic boulder into my pack! I was so mad I was furious. but when I saw that Preston was convulsing of laughter, and I could see that everyone else was having a huge laugh at my expense, I couldn't be mad anymore. I'll always remember you for the good prank. you got me good brother. see you in the next life my friend. - David Traywick, Charleston, SC

“ Buddy, I know that you know how much I love you. You will be missed daily. You were the first that I taught how to drive a standard car. You gave me several whiplashes. (LOL) I would not trade those times for anything in the world We always had so much fun together. My heart is broken. I love you so very much, Buddy. Love always, Aunt Dana
